02 Birth charts

North Indian style: houses are fixed and the numbers are signs (1 = Aries), with the Lagna at the top. The Navamsa (D9) refines the birth chart for marriage, dharma and inner strength.

Birth chart (Rasi, D1)

Lagna Virgo · Ayanamsa 23°43′32″

Navamsa (D9)

Navamsa Lagna Capricorn · marriage, dharma and inner strength

Su Sun · Mo Moon · Ma Mars · Me Mercury · Ju Jupiter · Ve Venus · Sa Saturn · Ra Rahu · Ke Ketu

ASC marks the Lagna. In the Rasi chart the small number at a planet's top right is its degree in the sign; a crowded house leaves it out, and the Planetary positions table lists them all. A small R at its bottom right means retrograde.

04 Yogas and doshas

Yogas

9 formed, including 1 Raja yoga.

Under each yoga, a bar runs from birth to age 100 and shows when it gives its results:

05 Planet by planet

What each planet does in its house, and what this chart adds to it: the sign's dignity, the houses the planet rules, retrograde motion, closeness to the Sun (combustion), planets sharing its sign, and aspects from Jupiter, Saturn and Mars.

Sun in the 9th house · Taurus

◐ Moderate

Lord of 12

Principled and idealistic, you hold firm beliefs and may feel drawn to teaching, law, religion or philosophy. Fortune tends to grow through mentors and people in authority, and your father may be a prominent influence, admired or sometimes challenged. Strong convictions can become rigid, so staying open to other viewpoints lets your sense of dharma mature into genuine wisdom.

In this chart: As lord of the 12th (expenses and foreign lands), it ties those matters to fortune and father. It is in an unfriendly sign, Taurus, so it delivers with some friction. Mars's aspect adds heat and urgency.

Functional nature Neutral

Rules your 12th, a neutral house, so it gives the results of the planets it joins.

Moon in the 5th house · Capricorn

◐ Moderate

Lord of 11

Imaginative and warm-hearted, you think with your feelings and often have artistic, literary or teaching gifts. Children can be a great source of joy and emotional connection, and romance tends to be tender and sentimental. Decisions about investments or love affairs are best made when your mood is settled, since you may otherwise be swayed by passing feelings.

In this chart: As lord of the 11th (gains and friends), it ties those matters to children and intellect. It shares the sign with Saturn and Rahu, blending in their influence.

Functional nature Malefic

Rules your 11th (desire and gains). On balance it works against you in this chart.

Mars in the 6th house · Aquarius

◐ Moderate

Lord of 3 & 8

Mars is at its fighting best here, giving you the grit to defeat rivals, clear debts and bounce back from illness with resilience. Careers in medicine, surgery, police, defence, law or competitive industries can suit you remarkably well. Your energy is considerable, so avoid overwork and let stress out through exercise, remembering that a measured approach often wins disputes more cleanly than force.

In this chart: As lord of the 3rd (effort and siblings) and the 8th (longevity and change), it ties those matters to health and rivals. Jupiter's aspect protects and expands it.

Functional nature Very malefic

Rules your 3rd (striving) and 8th (obstacles). On balance it works strongly against you in this chart.

Mercury in the 8th house · Aries

▲ Weak

Lord of 1 & 10 · Retrograde

Probing and inquisitive, your mind is drawn to research, investigation, mysteries and subjects most people find too complex. You may handle inheritance, taxes, insurance or other people's money with skill, though sudden changes can stir anxiety. You can stay mentally sharp well into later life, but nervous strain needs care, so regular rest and grounding activities help you think clearly.

In this chart: As lord of the 1st (self and health) and the 10th (career and status), it ties those matters to longevity and change. Retrograde: its themes are revisited and often deliver more fully later in life.

Functional nature Benefic

Rules your 1st (the Lagna) and 10th (a kendra). As the Lagna lord it stays on your side, whatever else it rules.

Jupiter in the 10th house · Gemini

◐ Moderate

Lord of 4 & 7

Respected for your judgement and integrity, you may rise to positions of responsibility in education, law, finance, administration or advisory work. Your career tends to grow steadily, and people often trust you with leadership because of your ethical approach. Ambition may develop gradually rather than urgently, so setting clear goals ensures your talents receive the recognition they deserve.

In this chart: As lord of the 4th (home and mother) and the 7th (marriage and partners), it ties those matters to career and status. It is in an unfriendly sign, Gemini, so it delivers with some friction.

Functional nature Slightly malefic

Rules your 4th (a kendra) and 7th (a kendra). A natural benefic that rules kendras loses some of its kindness (kendradhipati). It leans unhelpful for this chart. As lord of the 7th it is also a maraka.

Venus in the 7th house · Pisces

● Strong

Lord of 2 & 9 · Exalted

Partnership is central to your happiness, and you feel a strong pull towards romance, companionship and a spouse who is attractive and refined. Business partnerships in the arts, fashion, hospitality or diplomacy can also flourish. Because you value harmony so highly, you may avoid difficult conversations, yet honest dialogue is what keeps your relationships both loving and balanced.

In this chart: As lord of the 2nd (wealth and family) and the 9th (fortune and father), it ties those matters to marriage and partners. Exalted in Pisces, it gives its best results. Saturn's aspect adds delay and discipline.

Functional nature Benefic

Rules your 2nd (neutral) and 9th (a trikona). On balance a helpful planet for this chart. As lord of the 2nd it is also a maraka.

Saturn in the 5th house · Capricorn

● Strong

Lord of 5 & 6 | Own sign | Retrograde

Thoughtful and serious-minded, you tend to approach learning with discipline and may excel in research, engineering, history or structured subjects. Children may arrive later or bring responsibilities that deepen your maturity, and romance tends to be cautious. Speculation rarely suits you, so investing patiently and allowing yourself to play and create helps balance your earnest nature.

In this chart: As lord of the 6th (health and rivals) and of this house too, it ties those matters to children and intellect. In its own sign, Capricorn, it is confident and reliable. Retrograde: its themes are revisited and often deliver more fully later in life. It shares the sign with Moon and Rahu, blending in their influence.

Functional nature Slightly benefic

Rules your 5th (a trikona) and 6th (strife). It leans helpful for this chart.

Rahu in the 5th house · Capricorn

◐ Moderate

Inventive and unconventional, your mind is drawn to technology, foreign studies, speculation or unusual creative pursuits, and you can become absorbed in an idea for long stretches. Romance may be intense or break with convention, and matters around children may take unexpected turns. Speculative risks are especially tempting here, so balance daring ideas with careful research and a patient sense of timing.

In this chart: It works through Saturn, lord of Capricorn, which sits in the 5th house. It shares the sign with Moon and Saturn, blending in their influence.

Functional nature Slightly benefic

Rules no sign of its own: it acts for Saturn, its dispositor (slightly benefic for this chart), from your 5th, a trikona, which helps.

Ketu in the 11th house · Cancer

◐ Moderate

Quality matters more to you than quantity in friendships, and gains often come through intuition rather than active networking or self-promotion. Income may arise unexpectedly, though you might feel oddly detached from material ambitions once they are reached. Choosing goals that align with your deeper values, and staying in touch with a few trusted friends, brings genuine and lasting satisfaction.

In this chart: It works through Moon, lord of Cancer, which sits in the 5th house. Saturn's aspect adds delay and discipline.

Functional nature Slightly malefic

Rules no sign of its own: it acts for the Moon, its dispositor (malefic for this chart), from your 11th, a house of effort where a shadow planet does well.

NUMBERS — Supportive

Personal month 5 · Mercury · personal year 4

A month of change and movement: travel, new contacts and fresh ideas, without rash moves. Its planet, Mercury, is friendly with your Mulank 6 (Venus) and at odds with your Bhagyank 3 (Jupiter), so on balance the month suits you.

Why these habits work

Each habit from the months above, once, with the reason it helps.

Saturn

Start your working day at a fixed time and tackle the hardest task first.

Saturn rules discipline and work, and it rewards steady effort over bursts of enthusiasm. A fixed start removes the daily debate about when to begin, which is exactly where procrastination thrives. Focus and willpower are usually strongest early on, so spending them on the toughest job first leaves the rest of the day feeling lighter.

Moon

Keep the same bedtime and waking time every day, including weekends, within half an hour.

The Moon governs the mind and its natural ebb and flow, so a steady rhythm matters. Your body clock thrives on regularity; shifting sleep times confuses it in much the way jet lag does, leaving mood flatter and patience thinner. A consistent schedule is one of the simplest, best-supported ways to feel emotionally even.

Rahu

Set daily limits on social media and keep your phone out of the bedroom at night.

Rahu is linked with technology, restlessness and compulsive cravings, and many modern apps are designed to feed exactly those. Endless feeds use unpredictable rewards to keep you scrolling, which fragments attention and can leave you anxious. Clear limits and a phone-free bedroom put you back in charge and protect your sleep.

Saturn

Break big goals into small weekly steps and tick each one off on paper.

Patience and structure are core Saturn qualities, and long-term goals test both. Splitting a goal into visible steps turns a distant outcome into progress you can see each week, and research on motivation shows that tracking progress keeps people going far longer. That structure stops you giving up simply because results arrive slowly.

Rahu

Write down why you want each major goal, and review the list once a month.

Rahu fuels strong ambition but also illusions, such as chasing things because they look impressive rather than because they matter to you. Spelling out your reasons exposes goals borrowed from comparison or status. A regular review keeps your drive pointed at what genuinely fulfils you, so success, when it comes, actually feels satisfying.

Saturn

Visit or help an older relative or neighbour each week with something practical.

Saturn governs elders and duty, the responsibilities that hold families and communities together. Practical help gives older people connection and dignity, while you gain perspective from experience earned over decades. Meeting obligations in this quiet, consistent way also builds a sense of meaning, which is strongly linked to resilience during difficult periods.

Rahu

When an urge to check, buy or scroll arises, wait ten minutes before acting on it.

Obsession and restless craving are Rahu themes, and urges always feel more pressing than they really are. Psychologists describe cravings as waves that rise, peak and pass within minutes if you do not feed them. Delaying your response, sometimes called urge surfing, weakens the habit loop each time and rebuilds your sense of self-control.

Saturn

Walk for at least twenty minutes daily and add a few minutes of strength or balance work.

Saturn is associated with longevity, the long game of keeping your body capable as the years pass. Regular walking and simple strength exercises help maintain muscle and balance, which matter more and more with age. The habit works because it is modest: small, sustainable effort beats ambitious plans that stop after a fortnight.

Rahu

Before big decisions or investments, check the facts with two independent sources and sleep on it.

Rahu governs illusions and the pull of the new and unfamiliar, from foreign opportunities to online schemes that promise too much. Excitement narrows attention and makes risks look smaller than they are. Checking independent sources and allowing a night’s sleep lets the emotional rush settle, so your decision rests on evidence rather than hype.

Venus

Offer a warm hug or other affectionate touch to your partner or loved ones every day.

Venus governs love and affection, and much of affection is communicated without words. Warm touch, such as a lingering hug, calms the body’s stress response and is linked with feelings of trust and closeness. Small daily gestures keep a relationship feeling tender, especially in busy periods when long conversations are hard to find.

Venus

Block out one hour each week for a creative hobby such as music, drawing or cooking.

Art and beauty are Venus themes, and making something with your hands or voice is deeply restorative. Absorbing creative activity can bring on what psychologists call flow, a state in which worries recede and time passes easily. No talent is required; the benefit comes from the doing, not from the result.

Moon

Spend five minutes each evening writing down what you felt today and why.

Emotions are the Moon's territory, and unnamed feelings tend to linger and grow. Putting them into words, a practice researchers call affect labelling, tends to quieten the brain's stress response and helps you notice patterns over time. If low moods persist for weeks, speaking to a counsellor or doctor is a sensible next step.

Moon

Put screens away an hour before bed and do something calm instead, such as reading.

Since the Moon is linked with sleep and a settled mind, the hour before bed deserves protection. Bright screens and stimulating content keep the brain alert when it should be winding down, delaying the hormonal shift that brings sleep. A predictable, quiet routine tells your body that rest is on its way.

Moon

Phone or spend unhurried time with your mother, or someone who cares for you, weekly.

Your mother and the experience of being nurtured are central Moon themes. Feeling cared for is a basic human need, and regular warm contact with a trusted person helps lower stress and builds a sense of safety. Nurturing flows both ways, so offering care to a parent or friend steadies you too.

Jupiter

Give one hour a week to mentoring, tutoring or volunteering for a cause you value.

Jupiter represents generosity and the role of the teacher, so sharing what you know is a natural fit. Studies of volunteering consistently link regular giving of time with greater life satisfaction and a stronger sense of purpose. Teaching others also deepens your own understanding, because you have to make your knowledge clear and usable.

How the grid lines up with the kundali

Each number is ruled by a planet. When the grid and that planet's strength in the birth chart agree, the trait is reliable; when they disagree, one system softens or sharpens the other.

- Mulank planet Venus and Lagna lord Mercury are friends: your inner drive and outer personality work together.
- Bhagyank planet Jupiter is average in your kundali (Gemini, enemy, in house 10).
- Personal year 3 (Jupiter) and your Moon Antardasha are friendly: the year's numbers support the dasha.

16 Habits as remedies

Everyday habits chosen from this chart as remedies, each with the reason it is suggested. They are picked from planets that are weak or under pressure and life areas that score low. There are no rituals here: every habit is worth doing for its own sake.

Sharpen Mercury: learning, clear speech and a calmer mind

◐ Helpful

Mercury · intellect, speech, learning, trade, friendships and the nervous system

Why this is suggested: Mercury is weak in your chart (placed in the 8th house, a difficult house) and it is also your Lagna lord, tied to health and confidence. Mercury governs intellect, speech, learning, trade, friendships and the nervous system, so habits that steady these areas work directly on what the chart flags.

- ✓ Read or study something new for twenty minutes daily, then explain it to someone.

  Why it works: Mercury rules the intellect and learning, which thrive on steady use rather than occasional bursts. Short daily sessions add up to substantial knowledge over a year, and explaining an idea aloud forces you to organise it, which researchers find improves how well you remember it. Gaps in your understanding also become obvious.

- ✓ Before important conversations, note your three key points and say them plainly, without rushing.

  Why it works: Speech and communication are Mercury's domain, and clarity is a skill rather than a gift. Preparing a few key points lightens the mental load in the moment, so nerves are less likely to scramble your message. Listeners also remember simple, well-ordered points far better than long explanations, which makes you more persuasive.

- ✓ Work on one task at a time, silencing notifications for focused blocks of forty-five minutes.

  Why it works: Mercury is associated with the nerves and a quick, busy mind, which can easily tip into scattered overload. Constant switching between tasks drains attention and raises stress, and each interruption costs minutes of refocusing. Protecting blocks of single-task time lets your mind settle, so you finish more and feel noticeably less frazzled.

- ✓ Reach out to one friend or professional contact every week, simply to catch up.

  Why it works: Friendships and the exchange of ideas, including trade and networking, fall under Mercury. Social ties need small, regular investments to stay alive, and research on loneliness shows that well-kept friendships are strongly linked to wellbeing. Professionally, casual contact keeps you in mind when opportunities arise, since many openings travel through people you already know.

Channel Mars: movement, courage and calmer anger

◐ Helpful

Mars · energy, courage, anger, physical strength, siblings and property

Why this is suggested: Manglik dosha is present: Mars's drive sits in a house that is sensitive for relationships. Mars governs energy, courage, anger, physical strength, siblings and property, so habits that steady these areas work directly on what the chart flags.

- ✓ Do thirty minutes of vigorous exercise most days, building up gradually if you are new to it.

  Why it works: Mars rules physical energy and strength, and that energy needs somewhere to go. Vigorous movement burns off the stress chemistry that builds when you feel frustrated, which is why people often feel calmer and clearer after a hard workout. Over weeks, it also develops the stamina and strength that Mars symbolises.

- ✓ When anger rises, pause, take five slow breaths and wait ten minutes before responding.

  Why it works: Anger is classic Mars territory: useful as a signal, costly when it drives your words. The first surge of anger peaks and fades within minutes, and slow breathing activates the body's calming system. Creating a short gap lets the thinking part of your brain catch up, so you respond to the problem instead of reacting.

- ✓ Each week, choose one mildly nerve-racking step, like speaking up in a meeting, and take it.

  Why it works: Courage belongs to Mars, and like a muscle it strengthens with use. Facing small fears in a planned, gradual way is the principle behind exposure techniques used by psychologists: each time you act despite nerves and nothing terrible happens, your brain recalibrates the threat. Bigger challenges then start to feel manageable.

- ✓ Contact a sibling or cousin every week, and raise shared family or property matters early and calmly.

  Why it works: Mars governs siblings and property, two areas where friction can quietly build for years. Regular, low-stakes contact keeps goodwill in the bank, so harder conversations about money, inheritance or a shared home start from trust rather than suspicion. Raising issues while they are small prevents the resentment that turns practical disagreements into lasting rifts.

Ground Rahu: digital limits, real goals and clear thinking

◐ Helpful

Rahu · ambition, restlessness, obsession, technology, foreign influences and illusions · Especially until 6 Jan 2029

Why this is suggested: You are in the Rahu mahadasha until Jan 6, 2029, so its themes lead your life now. Rahu governs ambition, restlessness, obsession, technology, foreign influences and illusions, so habits that steady these areas work directly on what the chart flags.

- ✓ Set daily limits on social media and keep your phone out of the bedroom at night.

  Why it works: Rahu is linked with technology, restlessness and compulsive cravings, and many modern apps are designed to feed exactly those. Endless feeds use unpredictable rewards to keep you scrolling, which fragments attention and can leave you anxious. Clear limits and a phone-free bedroom put you back in charge and protect your sleep.

- ✓ Write down why you want each major goal, and review the list once a month.

  Why it works: Rahu fuels strong ambition but also illusions, such as chasing things because they look impressive rather than because they matter to you. Spelling out your reasons exposes goals borrowed from comparison or status. A regular review keeps your drive pointed at what genuinely fulfils you, so success, when it comes, actually feels satisfying.

- ✓ When an urge to check, buy or scroll arises, wait ten minutes before acting on it.

  Why it works: Obsession and restless craving are Rahu themes, and urges always feel more pressing than they really are. Psychologists describe cravings as waves that rise, peak and pass within minutes if you do not feed them. Delaying your response, sometimes called urge surfing, weakens the habit loop each time and rebuilds your sense of self-control.

- ✓ Before big decisions or investments, check the facts with two independent sources and sleep on it.

  Why it works: Rahu governs illusions and the pull of the new and unfamiliar, from foreign opportunities to online schemes that promise too much. Excitement narrows attention and makes risks look smaller than they are. Checking independent sources and allowing a night's sleep lets the emotional rush settle, so your decision rests on evidence rather than hype.

These habits support wellbeing; they do not replace a doctor, counsellor or financial adviser when you need one.

17 Gemstones

Traditional stones for the planets that help this chart, and the ones to leave alone. In the Parashari tradition a stone strengthens its planet, so it is chosen only for planets that help the chart: the Lagna lord, the 5th and 9th lords and the Yogakaraka.

ⓘ Gemstones are a traditional practice, not a proven treatment, and they are worn on the body and can cost a lot. Buy natural, certified, untreated stones from a trusted seller, and check with an astrologer you trust before an expensive purchase, especially Blue Sapphire.

Om Braam Breem Braum Sah Budhaya Namah

- ✦ Mercury rules your 1st and 10th, which makes it a helpful planet for your chart.

MANTRA (108 TIMES)
Om Draam Dreem Draum Sah Shukraya Namah

- Venus rules your 2nd and 9th, which makes it a helpful planet for your chart.

MANTRA (108 TIMES)
Om Praam Preem Praum Sah Shanaischaraya Namah

- Saturn rules your 5th and 6th, which makes it a helpful planet for your chart.
- It also rules the 6th, so start with a trial period.
- It is already strong (in its own sign in the 5th), so the stone is optional rather than needed.

How to wear a stone

1. Choose a natural stone of the weight shown, set in the metal shown, ideally with an open back so the stone touches the skin.
2. On the day and time shown, clean it with plain water, sit quietly for a few minutes and repeat the mantra 108 times.
3. Put it on the finger shown, on your working hand (usually the right).
4. Treat the first few weeks as a trial. If you feel unsettled, take it off and get advice before wearing it again.

Best avoided

Ruby (Sun) Sun rules your 12th. Strengthening the lord of a difficult house (6th, 8th or 12th) can magnify obstacles, so this stone is best avoided.

Pearl (Moon) Moon rules your 11th. Strengthening the lord of the 3rd or 11th can magnify obstacles, so this stone is best avoided.

Red Coral (Mars) Mars rules your 3rd and 8th. Strengthening the lord of a difficult house (6th, 8th or 12th) can magnify obstacles, so this stone is best avoided.

Only on personal advice

Yellow Sapphire (Jupiter) Jupiter rules your 4th and 7th: neither clearly helpful nor harmful for your chart. Wear it only on personal advice.

Hessonite (Rahu) Rahu has no sign of its own, so its stone is worn only for a specific purpose, usually during its own dasha.

Cat's Eye (Ketu) Ketu has no sign of its own, so its stone is worn only for a specific purpose, usually during its own dasha.

Crystals

Gentle, inexpensive crystals, chosen two ways: from the kundali and from the numbers of the birth date.

Crystals are a traditional and wellbeing practice, not a proven treatment. Unlike gemstones they cost little and need no setting, so they are easy to try: wear one, carry one, or keep one where you spend time.

Start with Rose quartz

Your kundali and your Mulank 6 both point to Venus, so it suits you both ways.

From the kundali

For the planets that help this chart, the same ones the gemstones support.

FIRST CHOICE

Green aventurine · leaf green with a soft sparkle

Mercury · Lagna lord

KEPT FOR

Clear thinking, study and trade

HOW TO USE

Keep it on the study or work desk, or wear it as a bracelet. A good day to start is Wednesday.

CARE

Rinse in water and dry with a soft cloth.

OR INSTEAD

Green jade (smooth mid-green), for calm speech and good judgement.

Green aventurine is tied to the same planet as Emerald, so it gives a gentle version of that support every day, at a fraction of the cost.

Rose quartz · pale pink

Venus · 9th lord

KEPT FOR

Love, harmony and self-care

HOW TO USE

Keep it in the bedroom or living room, or wear it as a pendant. A good day to start is Friday.

CARE

Rinse in water; keep it out of strong sun, which can fade it.

OR INSTEAD

Sphatik (clear quartz), for clarity and a calm, refined mind.

Rose quartz is tied to the same planet as Diamond, so it gives a gentle version of that support every day, at a fraction of the cost.

Amethyst · violet

Saturn · 5th lord

KEPT FOR
Patience, discipline and calm under pressure

HOW TO USE
Wear it as a bracelet or keep a cluster by the bed or desk. A good day to start is Saturday.

CARE
Rinse in water; keep it out of strong sun, which can fade it.

OR INSTEAD
Black tourmaline (black, ridged), for grounding and steady effort.

Amethyst is tied to the same planet as Blue Sapphire, so it gives a gentle version of that support every day, at a fraction of the cost.

Crystals for Sun, Moon and Mars are left out, for the same reason as their gemstones: those planets work against this chart.

From the numbers

For the planets that rule the Mulank and Bhagyank. They need only the birth date, so they hold even when the birth time is unknown.

6 MULANK (DRIVER)
Born on the 15th: 1 + 5 = 6.

Rose quartz · pale pink

Venus

Mulank 6 is ruled by Venus. As your driver number it colours your everyday nature, so Rose quartz supports you day to day.

Your kundali picks Venus too, so this crystal suits you both ways. How to use and care for it are under From the kundali.

3 BHAGYANK (DESTINY)
Whole birth date 15/05/1990: 1 + 5 + 0 + 5 + 1 + 9 + 9 + 0 = 30, then 3 + 0 = 3.

Citrine · golden yellow

Jupiter

KEPT FOR
Optimism, learning and prosperity

HOW TO USE
Keep it where you study or work, or wear it as a bracelet. A good day to start is Thursday.

CARE
Rinse in water; keep it out of strong sun, which can fade it.

OR INSTEAD
Yellow calcite (soft honey yellow), for study, wisdom and good counsel.

Bhagyank 3 is ruled by Jupiter. As your destiny number it shapes the path your life takes, so Citrine supports your long-term direction.

Your kundali counts Jupiter as neutral, neither helping nor harming, so this one comes from your numbers alone.

⚠ Venus (Mulank 6) and Jupiter (Bhagyank 3) don't get on: Jupiter counts Venus as an enemy, so wear these two crystals one at a time rather than together; of the two, start with Rose quartz.

18 About this report

How the figures in this report were worked out, and how to read them.

- ✓ Positions are sidereal, using the Lahiri (Chitrapaksha) ayanamsa (23°43′32″ at birth), calculated on this device with the astronomy-engine library. Rahu and Ketu use the mean lunar node.
- ✓ Houses are whole-sign houses counted from the Lagna, from the birth time 14:30 in Asia/Kolkata (UTC+05:30).
- ✓ Dashas follow the Vimshottari system from the Moon's nakshatra at birth.
- ✓ Current periods and Sade Sati are worked out for 19 Nov 2026.
- ✓ The year ahead runs from 1 Nov 2026 to 31 Oct 2027; sign changes are found to the minute.
- ✓ Transits are read from the Moon sign (gochara) and weighted by the planet's own Ashtakavarga bindus in the sign it enters.
- ✓ Event windows combine the running Vimshottari dasha with Jupiter, Saturn and Rahu transits over the houses linked to each event, and are graded Strong, Likely or Possible.
- ✓ Sade Sati spans are worked out from Saturn's actual sign changes over several decades.
- ✓ The personal year number follows Lo Shu practice: birth day and month plus the calendar year.
- ✓ Predictions read three timing systems together: the dasha shows what a period promises, the transits show when it is triggered, and the Varshaphal (the annual chart and its Mudda dasha) confirms the year. Each month weighs the dasha 40% (the antardasha, fine-tuned by the pratyantar), the transits of Jupiter, Saturn, Rahu and Ketu 35%, and the Varshaphal 25%, each measured against an ordinary month. Life areas are shown where at least two systems point the same way. Nadi (transiting Jupiter and Saturn switching on the birth planets they join or trine, after Bhrigu Nandi Nadi) and Numbers (the personal month, beside the Mulank and Bhagyank) are read alongside: each has its own lean and reading, and Nadi counts towards the life areas, but neither changes the month's step. Habits go to the planets under the most pressure that month, or to the most helpful one when nothing presses hard.
- ✓ The Varshaphal (year 37) is cast for the moment the Sun returns to its sidereal birth longitude, for New Delhi, India, the birth place. Its rules follow Tajika Neelakanthi as K.S. Charak teaches it; Jagannatha Hora differs in a few strength details, so its year lord can occasionally differ.
- ✓ Yogas, doshas, planet readings, life areas, habits as remedies, gemstones and crystals are rule-based readings from the FamilyOrbit engine, the same ones shown in the app.

- ✓ Lo Shu numerology uses the birth date, and gender for the Kua number.
